

From: Troutnk
Sent: Wednesday, October 29, 2003 6:43 PM
To: Guivetchi, Kamyar; Dabbs, Paul
Cc: pgleick ; stevebilson
Subject: Fwd: FW:

Kamyar,

I looked at this web site and thought it might have some potential for a discussion in the latest version of the plan. Are you aware of this and do you feel that it merits some coverage? I have copied Peter in case he has some experience with this approach.

Nick Di Croce
California Trout, Inc.

"Be well.....Do good work.....Stay in touch"
.....from Garrison Keillor

From: Gary Seput
Sent: Wednesday, October 29, 2003 10:26 AM
To: Nicholas DiCroce
Subject: FW:

Nick

FYI

Gary Seput
Executive Director
California Trout
www.caltrout.org

-----Original Message-----

From: Steve Bilson
Sent: Monday, October 27, 2003 2:51 PM
To:
Subject:

A proven technology exists to multiply urban water supplies by 35% and we're trying to reach everybody who can pass this information on to those in power to implement it.

The technology is residential water reuse, also known as greywater irrigation, but it's come a long ways since that term was coined. Please visit www.rewater.com for more info.

If you know Nick Di Crose, please pass this email on to him so he can relay it to DWR's Water Plan Update Committee during their meetings on how to increase water supplies without something being the loser.

Thanks!

Stephen Wm. Bilson
Chairman & CEO
ReWater Systems, Inc.